

Dale L. Sheehan M.O.M.

Dale Sheehan is a Retired Assistant Commissioner with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police with 35 years experience in law enforcement.

Born and raised in Montreal, he attended John Abbott College's Police Technology Program and is a graduate of Carleton University (B.A. Sociology/Criminology/Law) and the Sprott School of Business Executive Strategic Human Resources Leadership Program.

Dale has served across Canada and internationally with the RCMP and was seconded to the former Yugoslavia with the United Nations Peacekeeping forces. He was Director General, Chief Superintendent of the RCMP Learning and Development Branch. His responsibilities included all RCMP National Training programs, Tactical and Technical Training, Canadian Law Enforcement Training and International Training.

In October 2008, Mr. Sheehan won an international competition and was appointed as INTERPOL's first Director of Police Training and Development. He was posted in Lyon, France and Singapore for 8 years.

He has served as an Adjudicator and Mediator with the RCMP and sat on several national and international board of directors, including; Past President; Canadian Association Of Police Educators, INTERPOL Group Of Experts Police Training, Canadian Police Knowledge Network, RCMP Quarterly Editorial Board and the Intellectual Property Management Board.

A published historian and freelance writer, he is co-author of the Canadian best seller “Behind the Badge, A history of Depot Division”. He has personally funded a scholarship under his name at Carleton University to aid students entering criminology and law studies, to help broaden the appeal of public service through policing.

Dale Sheehan published and co-edited “Police Organization and Training, Innovations in Research and Practice” and “Match fixing in Football”, spearheading a collective effort of 13 different countries and international partners to help broaden the appeal of public service through policing. He is a freelance writer, published in several magazines and newspapers.

Dale has participated, observed and reviewed police training and capacity building in over 125 countries. He has devoted the large portion of his career in the anti corruption field, as well as migrant smuggling, border security, and security sector reform.

Sheehan is a Director, Capacity Building and Education with the International Centre Sport Security and has lectured internationally on integrity and corruption in sport.

Dale Sheehan is the recipient of the St Johns Ambulance Medal, the Canadian Peacekeeping Medal, United Nations Protection Force Medal, Canada 125 Medal, Saskatchewan Centenary Medal, Queen Elizabeth II Golden Jubilee Medal, Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Medal, Columbia Police Medal, Royal Canadian Mounted Police Long Service Medal and the Member of the Order of Merit